Student Views Differ on Inauguration

Opinions of SIU students are varied concerning the handling of the 1964 presidential inauguration. Most agree that it is a fine tribute, but some feel that the administration has gone overboard in playing up the event.

"The inauguration is a serious, meaningful ceremony," said Roland A. Gill, a sophomore from Flora. "But it is being cheapened by the exploitation by private individuals who are doing such things as selling seats to view it. An event such as the presidential inauguration should be open to all."

"It'll be quite a gala thing," commented Alan S. Harasimowicz, a junior from Chicago. "I heard it will be the biggest thing since Andrew Jackson, but I think it is a fine tribute to a great occasion."

Sandi L. Harriss, a senior from Lombard, and Robert B. Wiley, a sophomore from Albion, agreed that President Johnson is making too much out of the affair.

"It will be the first time I have seen my President in a bubble," commented Miss Harriss. "For a man who won by such a landslide to put on such a show makes me feel sorry for him. Goldwater would never allow such isolation."

Concerning the security measures being taken, Terrence L. Cook, a senior from Waukegan said he thought a lot of money was being wasted. "If someone really wants to assassinate him there will be

6 Coeds Vie for Military Ball Queen Title; Coronation Climaxes Weekend of Activities

Six coeds have been chosen finalists for the 1965 Military Ball Queen title.

All are members of Angel Flight, women's auxiliary to the AFOTC.

The Military Ball, to be held at 9 p.m. Jan. 30 in the University Center Ballroom, is the climax of a weekend of activities sponsored by the ROTC cadets. It is the biggest formal event of the year at Southern.

The new queen, who will be selected by a vote of the cadets, will be crowned during the coronation ceremony by last year's queen, Kathy Jones of Joliet.

The "Angels" who have been chosen finalists are:

Arlette Alexander of Granite City, 19-year-old sophomore. She intends to obtain her degree in apparel design.

Martha Edmison, a sophomore who was selected "Little Colonel" for the AFOTC four-state area this year, and will compete for the ROTC Arnold Air Society's National title of "Little General" at the society's national conclave April 11-14 in Washington, D.C. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Pam Kidd of Metropolis, an attendant to the 1963 Homecoming queen and recently chosen Miss Woody Hall. She is a sophomore majoring in elementary education.

Sidney Ludwig of Benton, a freshman. She was a participant in the 1964 Freshman Talent Show.

Judy McDonald, 21-year-old junior majoring in elementary education and secretary of her floor at Baldwin Hall. She is from Virginia, Ill.

Velda Smith, a freshman member of Angel Flight, who is majoring in elementary education. She is from Sandoval.

Charlie Wasserman and his orchestra from St. Louis will provide the music for the Military Ball.

The candidates will make their first group appearance on campus this weekend. They will be introduced at a style show at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Roman Room of the University Center.

The style show will feature formal wear that would be appropriate to wear to the Military Ball.

Traditional Rites Fill Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon Baines Johnson took the inaugural oath of the presidency Wednesday with tradition-tinged ceremony and a ringing promise to lead his countrymen to a destiny of justice, liberty and union.

And before this generation ends, Johnson promised, it will see the conquest of poverty, hunger, ignorance and discrimination.

"So," Johnson said in a 23-minute inaugural address, "let us reject any among us who seek to reopen old wounds and rekindle old hatreds. They stand in the way of a seeking nation."

Standing under a hazy sun on a chilly day, in a ceremony as timeless as the nation yet somehow as new as a dawning day, Johnson uttered the 35 words of the presidential oath at 12:03 p.m. from the inaugural platform beneath the towering grav dome of the United States Capitol.

It was a moment of solemnity and glowing sentiment.

The tall Texan suddenly shifted the plans and asked Mrs. Johnson to hold for him his mother's well-worn Bible. With stars, or even a trace of tears in her eyes, Lady B. Johnson stood beside her husband and complied.

Originally, an official of the inauguration committee had been tapped to hold the Bible. But Lyndon B. Johnson is a sentimental man.

He showed it, too, at the end of his inaugural address with a renewed assurance to fellow Americans and all mankind that he will lead and he will do his best.

His mind went back to the November day in 1963 when he took the presidential oath at a time of tragedy.

"To trusted public servants, to families and close friends of mine who have followed me down a long, winding road, and to all the people

There'll Be Beauty Too

Ugliness Is Only Mask-Deep In Zeta Nu's Contest of Beast

Geel You're ugly. Don't worry if this has been said to you, men. Your day to shine may be just around the corner.

It's that time of year again when Zeta Nu chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is preparing to honor the ugliest man on campus at its annual UMOG festivities.

This time, though, the event will be expanded to a "Beauty and the Beast Contest," so while you're laying traps to snare your candidate for UMOC you can also keep an eye open for your "campus belle."

Any living unit or organization recognized by the Office of Student Affairs may sponsor any couple who give their consent and who are connected with the University on a full-time basis. If the candidates are not in good standing (a 3.0 point grade average) they must petition at the Office of Student Affairs. No member of Alpha Phi Omega may compete.

Candidates for the Beast should be disguised in a grotesque or humorous manner. Beauty candidates, however, should not need disguising.

Photographs of the contestants will be taken Feb. 2. The pictures will be used for publicity. Students will decide who to vote for on the basis of the pictures. Each sponsoring group must pay a $4 fee for photographic expenses.

There are no restrictions on who may vote or how many times a person may vote. Votes will be tallied on a penny per vote basis.

An essay of no more than 50 words must accompany each application. This information will be used for publicity and should explain some of the reasons why your candidates best represent the Beauty and the Beast.

Entry forms are available at the Information Desk of the University Center. They must be returned (with essays) in time to arrange for having photographs taken. Further information may be obtained by calling 549-1381.

A number of prizes, all donated by local merchants, will be awarded to Beauty, Beast and the sponsoring organization. The winning group will pick a charity to which all proceeds from the voting will be given.

Practice Equality, City Firms Urged

The Civil Rights Committee of the League of Women Voters has sent letters to all Carbondale business firms asking the proprietors "not only to preach but practice the American ideal of equality for all citizens."

The letter noted that the median income of nonwhite families in Carbondale is less than in any other city of comparable size in Illinois.

Enclosed in the letter was a "Checklist for Fair Employment" put out by the State Fair Employment Practices Commission appointed by Gov. Otto Kerner. The letter also stated that both the City Human Relations Commission and the East Side Improvement League stand ready to help the businesses find qualified Negro employees.

Editorial Comment

Rules for Students

Vicki Packer, in an editorial entitled "Consistency" in the University of Illinois Daily Illini of Jan. 6, 1965, raises some controversial questions on conduct and privileges of college students. These issues can be found on most college campuses in America today, including SIU.

Miss Packer complains about the inconsistency in formulation and enforcement of regulations governing student conduct. For instance she notes that although there are rules about what hours women should be in their dorms, a check of the rooms is not made to be sure that they are there. She believes that these rules are unnecessary anyway, at least for upperclass women.

Advocating a change in the housing rules, she insists to the University, "Your reputation would not be hurt by allowing students to be responsible for their personal lives." She then relates how various schools give keys to upperclass women and allow underclass men to have off-campus apartments; how women are allowed to visit men's rooms, and how these institutions are not losing students because of such measures.

Summing up her argument, she declares that "surely upperclassmen who can legally marry, drink, enter the Army and vote can decide for themselves how late to stay out." Pleading with the University to change its attitude, Miss Packer says, "Now you are like a parent who only imposes rules because of what the neighbors might think."

How do these issues apply to Southern? Here we have the same hours for upper-class and underclass women, with no room check to enforce it. Recently at Warren Hall women were allowed in men's rooms at certain times on Sundays, although this has now been discontinued. So our rules are about the same as those at the University of Illinois.

But do these rules need to be changed to be more liberal? We think not. SIU already has a reputation—and even a ranking by national magazines—as a play-school. If we can gain this reputation on existing regulations, surely our rules are liberal enough. This reputation "would not be hurt by allowing students to be responsible for their personal lives." But our fast-growing reputation as a center of learning would be damaged by liberalizing these rules. We would not lose students perhaps, but what kind of students would Southern gain?

Upperclassmen who can legally vote and drink are allowed to have any kind of housing they wish at SIU, with as much privacy from the University officials as they wish. The popularity of trailer courts testifies to this. And mustn't at least some of the regulations of a university be formulated on what the "neighbors" will think? If the parents who are to send their sons and daughters to school don't approve of the rules, they will find some other place. A major consideration everyone makes when deciding on a course of action is what society, or at least the people around them, will think about it. And the university, acting in the place of parents, must make this judgment in order to be successful in the administration of its students. Therefore we feel that Southern must grow more as a center of learning, not as a center of fun, before any changes can be made.

Town-Gown Relations No. 4

As Seen by the Postman

Lack of proper mailboxes at off-campus dormitories causes a major problem in seeing that students receive mail addressed to them, Ervin Sullivan, Carbondale postmaster, and C.G. Toler, assistant postmaster, told the Daily Egyptian.

Sullivan, asked about problems with mail service to off-campus SIU students, said many dormitories have little more than a table in the hall for mail.

Builders and operators of the private dormitories could make the mailman's job much easier with installation of individual mailboxes, Toler said. This would also ensure that mail got to the person to whom it was addressed, he added.

Another difficulty, Sullivan said, is lack of proper addresses on mail to students living on the four rural routes served from the Carbondale Post Office. Also, many students fail to put their names on rural mailboxes, thus giving the rural mail carrier no idea where they live.

Each rural route has some 400 mailboxes, some of which are used by as many as 10 students for receipt of mail, Sullivan said. When the mail carrier gets a letter addressed with just a route number, he has no idea where on the route the student lives.

Sullivan and Toler suggested that students living on rural routes check with the carrier to find the number of their mailbox. With this number added to the address, the carrier has no doubt which box gets which mail.

The two officials urged that either in town or on rural routes students put their names on their mailboxes. If this is done, even improperly addressed mail has a better chance of being delivered.

They also urged that when students move, even if it is just a few doors down the street, they come to the Post Office and fill out change-of-address forms to avoid interruption of mail service while the mailman is trying to find out where they have moved to. This is also helpful when they leave Carbondale, Sullivan said. Otherwise mail has to be returned to the sender.

Summing up the problems, both at houses and apartments, and at dormitories, Sullivan and Toler said smoother mail service would be made a lot easier if students would provide adequate mailboxes and be certain the names of all using them are clearly marked or painted on them.

ALMOST TO THE CROSSING, JOE. HOLD IT AND BACK HER UP!

Hooray, Mike!

Mike Williams has brought a world's championship to SIU. His efforts cost the University $1.98. That's the cost of the 3,038 gallons of water reportedly used during his 60-hour, record-breaking shower.

The meager cost is insignificant, however, when one considers the publicity brought to the University. How much publicity can you buy for two bucks? Not even a two-inch ad in the Daily Egyptian.

And Mike handled himself in the style of a true champion. He made certain the publicity was good. Students and the administration, have reason to be proud of him. He's not a beatnik who has disgraced the University; he's a clean-cut young man who's been a service to his campus.

When "fame" came his way, he refused to give himself credit; he looked beyond his residence hall, beyond his living area. He placed the honor with his University.

When a New York disc jockey attempted to ridicule Mike and his "midwestern" school, with the question, "Is that all you have to do with your time?" Mike only replied in a polite manner, "No."

Mike didn't let fun get in to the way of his education. The one class he missed was attended by a friend and he made a personal apology to the professor for missing class. Fellow residents tutored him while he was in the shower. He and his friends took precautions not to embarrass housing administrators; they went to them first.

Mike Williams might be all wet in some people's minds, but to our way of thinking he's a long-awaited hero who has shown us how to have good, clean fun—at no one's expense but his own.

Wit's End

By Ric Cox

WORD PLAY: It's a sad commentary on religion on this campus, but this week might be termed (rather than Religion-in-Life Week) Life-in-Religion Week.

EGGHEAD'S PHILOSOPHY: I noticed an article in the Evansville Courier-Press Sunday magazine about SIU's own "egghead" professor, Claude Coleman, director of Plan A.

He was quoted as saying of his college days:

"No one gave a damn about the state of my mind, morals, or physical condition."

Today's student might also add to that list that no one seems to care about his education, either.

STUDY SHOWER: Wonder if the day will ever come when a fad will sweep college campuses which will find someone claiming he studied for 60 hours?

OVER-ASSIGNED OVER-PAID? Housing officials apparently feel they are overpaying students over-assigned in residence halls, for they have recommended a policy calling for a 50 per cent reduction (from $1 a day to 50¢) in the future for compensation.

The recommendation is part of a revision of a policy suggested by the Residence Halls Council.

The proposal, which also includes numerous protections of residents against over-assignments, is now among the stacks on J. Albin Yokie's desk.

GIRLS ONLY: Girl football fans, get your reservations in early for University Park's 17th story. It's a ringside seat to McAndrew Stadium.

The view of the campus and the surrounding countryside is also something to behold.

Just make certain your contract includes provisions for an elevator.

HEALTH REASONS: A trip to the top of the towering structure will convince you the Health Service move isn't for reasons of health. The dorm makes a tremendous place from which bombs could be dropped.

ROTC, ABOUT FACE: The recent announcement by the ROTC department of the new two-year program has led some to comment that it might be the first step in preparing the way for a voluntary program here.

Squadron, about face!

Wet Blanket On IC Makes For Dry Run

"A Budweiser please," I said as I deposited 52 cents on the counter.

"Are you a student?" the porter asked. After I said I was, the porter said, "I can't serve no students."

The scene was the Illinois Central train that followed the Saluki Special north last December 18.

"I'm just followin' orders," the colored porter said as about five students protested that, as students and a minority group, they were being discriminated against.

Soon, Lt. Kirk and another officer of the University Police, on the train at the request of the Illinois Central, came to the club car and read the inter-office memo that had been sent to the porter.

It read in gist: A large number of Southern Illinois University students are expected to board train in Carbondale. Liquor sales to students are prohibited.

Lt. Kirk said this was the first time that he had ever seen anything like it.

As one of the many students that use the Illinois Central facilities, I hope it's the last time that Lt. Kirk or anyone else sees evidence of discrimination against students on the Illinois Central Railroad.

Associated Press News Roundup

New Administration Saluted With Spectacular Procession

WASHINGTON (AP)—Down "The Avenue of Presidents" they came—54 bands, 31 floats, 15,000 marchers—in a thunderous, drum-beating musical salute to Lyndon Baines Johnson on his inauguration day.

A police-estimated one million persons lining the parade route down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol—where Johnson was sworn in as the 36th president of the United States—watched the spectacular procession keyed to the theme of the President's proclaimed "Great Society."

And millions more across the land watched on television as Johnson led the parade to his reviewing stand at the White House to take the salute of marching representatives of all the states and all the military services.

A smiling and waving Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, sworn in at the Capitol just prior to Johnson's, was at the chief executive's side.

And watching nonchalantly too from a seat in the reviewing stand was the President's beagle, "Him," hoisted to his vantage point by the President shortly after arriving at the reviewing post. "Him" was removed a short time later.

The sun beamed down in almost warm weather as a phalanx of police motorcycles moved off at 2 p.m., 20 minutes behind schedule, to set the miles-long procession in motion.

The United States Army Band and precisely aligned ranks of the 3rd Infantry followed, then the heavily guarded President's bubble-top limousine and other cars carrying members of the President's and vice president's families.

Four and sometimes six Secret Servicemen trotted and walked beside the President's car, mindful of the 1963 tragedy of Dallas in another procession when former President John F. Kennedy was shot and killed.

Much to their astonishment, the President stopped his car shortly after the parade started, vaulted out and walked over to shake hands with the pretty drum majorette and banner bearers of the band from his old school, Southwest Texas State Teachers College.

The incident was over quickly and the parade moved off again with the windows in the President's car remaining shut.

But his daughters Lynda and Luci rolled them down in their car and waved and smiled at the crowd.

In the background the towering white dome of the Capitol loomed over the scene of massed flags snapping in a light breeze, of pumping white-gloved hands of military marching units including those from the military academies—and of martial music and beating drums.

of this Union and the world," Johnson said, "I will repeat today what I said on that sorrowful November day:

"I will lead and I will do the best I can."

"But you—you must look within your own hearts—to the old promises and the old dream. They will lead you best of all."

The presidential oath was administered for the 45th time in history.

Johnson said it was a moment of majesty and meaning, because the oath he had taken before his fellow Americans and before God "is not mine alone, but ours together. We are one nation and one people. Our fate and our future rest not upon one citizen but upon all citizens."

And in broad generalities, Johnson spoke beyond the seas to other peoples to tell them that: "We aspire to nothing that belongs to others. We seek no dominion over our fellow man, but man's dominion over tyranny and misery."

The forefathers of this nation, the President said, came here from other lands as exiles and strangers to make a covenant "conceived in justice, written in liberty, bound in union."

"It binds us still," he said. "And if we keep its terms we shall flourish."

Tens of thousands of people spread out on the snowclad plaza in front of the Capitol to watch the ceremony and hear the address. The words were bounced overseas by way of a communications satellite. And by radio and television the event reached the nation.

Gloomy London Keeps Churchill Death Watch

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, his condition at low ebb, clung to a fingertip hold on life Thursday. No single ray of hope for the 90-year-old statesman penetrated London's wintry gloom. Churchill's circulation grew weaker Wednesday, his doctor reported.

Sir Winston was visited three times Wednesday by Lord Moran, his personal physician for the last quarter century and himself a veteran of 82. Emerging from the last visit well-wrapped up against the chill night air, Moran was asked by a reporter if Sir Winston was at a very low ebb.

"Yes," he replied, but added that his condition was "very stationary. It could remain like that from 24 hours to 24 hours."

Reporters took this to mean that Sir Winston, felled by a stroke last Friday, could remain at his present low ebb from day to day.

But regardless of how long he lingers, medical experts gave him no chance of pulling through.

"It is impossible to hope for a favorable outcome," said Dr. Harley Williams, director of the Chest and Heart Association.

Moran reported at midday that Sir Winston's restlessness was gone and that he had slept peacefully through the night and morning.

Then, in the evening bulletin, he said: "The weakness of Sir Winston's circulation is more marked. There is nothing else to report. There will be another bulletin in the morning."

The reference to Sir Winston's circulation was the first since the initial bulletin last Friday. That one said that after a cold Sir Winston had developed a circulatory weakness and there had been a cerebral thrombosis.

The life of the nation went on in subdued tempo as Sir Winston's condition declined.

Powell Assures License Plates' On-Time Delivery

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Secretary of State Paul Powell expressed confidence Wednesday that all automobile license plates applied for by the Feb. 1 deadline will be delivered by Feb. 15.

Motorists who fail to display 1965 plates by then will violate the law.

Powell's office said license applications are running about 278,000 behind those received at this time last year. However, the rate of receipt of applications apparently stepped up recently.

His office said more complaints than usual are being received about plates applied for and not received.

Powell said the validating division, involving operating of a machine like a cash register, has to be speeded up. The machine prints information on applications that helps to certify and control operations.

Malaysian Invasion Discounted

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The chances of a major Indonesian invasion in Malaysia seem remote despite a large military buildup on the frontier in Borneo, some well-informed diplomatic and government sources said Wednesday.

These sources believe Britain deliberately encouraged an atmosphere of crisis to head off the possibility of a major stepup of border attacks that would still be below the level of serious invasion. Britain has a defense treaty with Malaysia.

Some of these sources said the tactic appears to have worked but that Indonesia will probably continue its border raids and landings on the Malaysian mainland at about the present level.

Because of the continuing military buildup by Britain in Malaysia, these attacks and incursions stand even less chance of success than in the past.

Diplomats also believe the possibility of a major conflict in Malaysian Borneo has been lessened by the political situation in Indonesia.

Indonesia's Communist party is making a determined bid to oust its enemies in President Sukarno's government and is seriously embarrassing the regime with demonstrations and agitation over skyrocketing prices. Indonesian leaders are reported devoting a major portion of their energies to the internal power struggle.

Information Minister Senu Abdul Rahman told reporters the Communists have all but isolated Sukarno from his cabinet.

Gen. Sir James Cassels, incoming chief of British general staff, said Tuesday night in Kuala Lumpur that Indonesia has trebled its forces in Borneo.

Johnson's Speech Impresses Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Illinois' most prominent Republican was impressed with the eloquence of President Johnson's inaugural speech Wednesday.

"It was an eloquent resume of our history and an equally eloquent reminder of our responsibilities," said Sen. Everett Dirksen, Senate minority leader noted for eloquence himself.

But it was primarily a day for Illinois Democrats as they helped celebrate the inauguration of the man who led their party to a sweeping victory in November.

Gov. Otto Kerner, the Chicago Fire Department band and a black horse troop represented the state in the inaugural parade after Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey took their oaths.

VICE PRESIDENT HUMPHREY

He Wanted Presidency

Humphrey Takes Position As LBJ's Choice for Heir

WASHINGTON (AP)—For Hubert Horatio Humphrey, 53, who had wanted to be president, this, too, was a proud day in his life.

At 11:57 a.m., his usually smiling face solemn, he raised his right hand and swore: "I, Hubert Horatio Humphrey," would faithfully discharge the duties of vice president.

"So help me God," he said in measured tones.

Then he shook hands with President Johnson, who had chosen him as his vice-presidential running mate.

The Humphreys' four children sat on the rostrum near their father—Mrs. Bruce Solomonson, 25, of Minneapolis and mother of their only two grandchildren; Hubert III, 22; Robert, 20; and Douglas, 16. An old friend from Minnesota, Fred Gates, had held the Bible—one from Mrs. Humphrey's family—while Humphrey took the oath of office.

On this day, the vice president had no big role to play except take his oath of office. He had no speech.

But Johnson already has assigned special tasks to his energetic vice president, and Humphrey is not the type to sit by the fire.

"One quality I do not have is reluctance," he told cheering Young Democrats at a gathering Tuesday night.

"I weighed the decision of the vice presidency carefully—not long but carefully. The history books do not recall those who said no."

Humphrey and his party had seats in the presidential box near the White House to review the parade that included in all its glory the high school band from Doland, S.D.

Humphrey once played in the Doland band, for he was born in Doland and went to school there before the depression saw his family move to Huron, S.D.

Trustees of University of Illinois Adopt Higher Board's Budget Cuts

CHICAGO (AP)—The University of Illinois trustees adopted Wednesday a proposed 1965-67 budget of $214,061,162.

It represents a $45,370,481 or 26.9 per cent increase over the present two-year appropriation.

The board originally recommended a $49,079,919 increase but the Illinois Board of Higher Education suggested the lower figure.

The board, in a statement, said:

"We believe that the budget request as originally presented was valid and conservative in view of the university's responsibility to meet its obligations to the state, and consistent with a realistic appraisal of the needs of the university.

"However, we do not be-

Viet Premier Faces New Buddhist Crisis

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A new Buddhist crisis confronted Premier Tran Van Huong's U.S.-backed administration Wednesday even as a potential cabinet crisis unexpectedly eased. Street fighting revived.

Five militant Buddhist leaders, accusing Huong of trying to destroy their faith, launched a hunger strike to force him out of office. They declared they will fast until death if necessary. Some of their followers clashed with troops in a three-hour riot.

Four young generals and a civilian were sworn in as cabinet officers after a 24-hour hitch caused by the reluctance of one, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, to assume a new job as minister of youth and sports.

Commander of the Vietnamese air force, Ky had rejected the appointment. Two U.S. generals were reported to have helped persuade him to accept.

Ky told newsmen, however, he will stay in the cabinet "only a couple of weeks" and will keep command of the air force, a pivotal organization in Vietnamese military affairs. In the long run, governments here are made or broken not by politicians, but by force of arms.

The other three generals surrendered their military jobs, though keeping their rank. They include Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, who became second deputy premier.

All the appointees posed with Premier Huong for pictures at Gia Long Palace, where President Ngo Dinh Diem was overthrown in a bloody coup Nov. 1, 1963.

How long the revamped cabinet will hold together is anyone's guess. U.S. officials expressed relief when the new ministers were installed. This was at least a step toward burying the hatchet between the civilians and the generals.

2 Freshmen Lose Motor Privileges

An 18-year-old freshman from Chicago lost his motor vehicle privileges for speeding on Campus Drive.

A spokesman in the Office of the Dean of Students said the student was driving 35 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone. He was also assessed $5, reprimanded and told to store his scooter in Carbon-dale, sell it or ship it home.

Another student, a 19-year-old freshman from Rock Island, lost his motor vehicle privileges for the winter quarter after he was ticketed for driving his motor scooter too fast for conditions. He was also reprimanded and fined $5.

FELIX GREENE

Traveler-Author To Talk on China

A first-hand account of what is going on inside Communist China will be presented when Felix Greene, British-born California importer, author and traveler, lectures on campus Friday.

The Asian Studies Committee of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and the Graduate School are sponsoring Greene's appearance. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Greene's illustrated talk will be entitled "What's New in China," and will be based on his 12,000-mile tour of Inner Mongolia in 1963, during which he interviewed Chou En-lai for the second time.

Greene's latest book on his China experience is "A Curtain of Ignorance." His previous book, "Awakened China," was a best-seller in Great Britain.

Art Crafts at Southern Given High Rating

SIU has been rated as one of the four universities in the United States which possess outstanding merit as places for study in the art crafts of ceramics, metalsmithing and weaving.

This rating, which appeared in a "Short Guide to World Crafts," published by the American Craftsman's Council, is a new and distinctive rating. Only ten centers in the United States are cited in these craft categories, six of which are professional art schools. The other four are universities.

Southern's crafts are offered in the Department of Art of the School of Fine Arts. The ceramics work is headed by Nicholas Vergette, associate professor; metalsmithing is taught by Louis Brent Kingston, assistant professor; weaving is taught by Mrs. Claribel McDaniel and Mrs. Laura Wieman, lecturers.

All four are active craftsmen who have been exhibiting consistently in shows throughout the country.

Currently SIU crafts students are showing, by invitation, an exhibition at the newly formed Craft Alliance Gallery, St. Louis.

Line of Dimes Lengthens As Southern Students Give

By Tim Ayers

Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity, is aiming for $500 in their line of dimes for the March of Dimes campaign which started Wednesday.

According to Dick O'Herron, Streater, the response couldn't be better. "People are giving two or three times in a couple hour's time," he said.

O'Herron also mentioned that not all the giving was purely altruistic. He said that one instructor gave him a dollar, but told him it was to keep the noise down, that his class was being disturbed. Whatever the reason, however, the money was quickly added to the long line.

That line, when finished, is expected to stretch all the way from the Student Union to the Bursar's office. The line does not contain all the money collected as most of the cash is periodically removed and put in a safer spot.

It takes a rather hard heart to turn down a "Can you spare a dime for a crippled kid," Sam Derikrava from Chicago says that some people take to the woods rather than pass the front of the Union where the drive is being held.

Ag Ticket Sales Will End Today

Today is the last day that tickets for the All-Agriculture banquet may be purchased. They are being sold in the foyer at the base of the stairs to Muckelroy Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

The banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the University Center Ballroom. The tickets are $5 a couple, including a free corsage.

Chicago, said that this is his first time collecting, as it is for many of the new members, but he is sure that they will be able to set a new record in the three days that they will be collecting.

Collecting isn't all standing out in the cold, however. According to Mike Lyons of Chicago it's a good way to meet girls. He also said that "Girls give the best response. Guys might give more, when they do donate, but it's the girls that are the most consistent."

Whether or not this is a challenge is hard to say, but whatever way one looks at it, the actives and pledges will still be there working in shifts until Friday afternoon.

Students' Views On Inauguration

no way to stop it," he said.

Byron E. Hill, assistant supervisor of the University Center, was one of several to complain about the dress to be worn at this year's inauguration. "They have taken all the formality out of the solemn event," he said. "They should still wear tuxedos and maintain the formality fitting such an affair."

Cook disagreed with Hill, however, saying that he felt the more informal setting was good.

"As far as changes are concerned President Johnson is setting his own image," J.R. Herrick, a senior from Farmer City, said, summing up the others' views. "This must be the image he wants."

City Council Adopts Program To Get Continued Federal Aid

A workable program for continued aid from the federal government for Carbondale was approved by the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

This program will be forwarded to the federal government for certification.

Finance commissioner, William Eaton, sitting in for Mayor Blaney Miller in the latter's absence, said, "This program is a means of making Carbondale a better place to live in 20 years from now."

"Each department will increase expenditures in 1965 in an attempt to increase the level of living in the city of Carbondale," Eaton said. "These increases are necessary because we must live up to the expectations of the federal government if we wish to continue receiving aid."

In other business the council:

—Passed Ordinance 1264 which is part of the Illinois Fire Prevention Regulation.

—Received a letter from the Carbondale Downtown Merchants Association thanking the council for parking signs and free parking for visitors during the recent Holiday Tournament.

—Received bids for a new truck from the automobile dealers in Carbondale.

The council also received a letter from the Citizens Advisory Committee recommending a five-year capital improvements budget and a proposed source of income from a utility tax.

Winter Anglers Need Ice at Crab Orchard

Ice fishing in Southern Illinois has been on the wet side so far this year. But absence of ice on Crab Orchard Lake is not unusual in the winter, according to Robert Persomius, refuge manager of Crab Orchard.

A one-week period of ice coverage is the average per year.

"But sometimes the coves and bay areas freeze over for a longer period of time," he added.

"The angler can catch more fish per unit effort during cold weather, if he can find them," Vernon W. Cole, assistant director of Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory, said. "The fish move to deep water during the winter months, since the deep water provides the fish with food and warmer temperatures," he added.

Since most boat docks are closed until spring, the winter angler will have trouble getting to the deep water, unless the ice is strong enough to support his weight.

It appears the winter fisherman will have a problem this year.

WALT FRAZIER (NO. 52) HAD SCORED 153 POINTS UP TO WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Sports Shorts

Frazier's 153 Points Gives Him Top Birth Among SIU Scorers

Walt Frazier's 33 points against Kentucky Wesleyan were the highest single game total for a Saluki in more than two years.

The sophomore from Atlanta, Ga., made 14 field goals in the game, and fell only two short of Charlie Vaughn's record of 16. Vaughn set the record in 1959 against Indiana State.

After 10 games, only four points separate Southern's top three scorers. Frazier leads the way with his 153, followed by George McNeill at 152 and Joe Ramsey at 149.

The first award for the most unpopular player to appear in the Arena goes to Kentucky Wesleyan's Dallas Thornton. He didn't endear himself to players or fans with his football-like play, and probably isn't the idol of schoolboys in Owensboro, Kentucky.

Thornton, a freshman center, will probably have fewer assists than any other player in history. He passed off only one time in the second half, except when he was tied up so tight that he couldn't possibly shoot.

The SIU fans showed their reverence for Thornton by greeting their hero with duck calls, cat calls, whistles and rally horns every time he stepped to the free throw line.

Another man who wouldn't win any popularity poll in Carbondale is Wesleyan's coach, Guy Strong. The Panthers' mentor became the first coach to have a technical called against him in the Arena, as he spent more of the game on his feet protesting the referees decisions than he did on the bench observing the game.

Strong also voiced strong opposition to the officiating after the game, but this is his usual comment after any game his team plays in Carbondale.

The Salukis proved to be masters of mystery in the Wesleyan game as they kept the fans on the edge of their seats wondering if Southern would ever top the 100-point mark. The Salukis, after scoring their ninety-ninth point, took several shots from the field and four free throws before Clarence Smith finally broke the suspense by sinking a free throw to light up a three-digit figure on the scoreboard.

The United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) will hold its trials for the world's trampoline championship at 8 p.m., Jan. 27, in the Arena.

The USGF will send a team of two men and two women to represent the United States at London on Jan. 28-31.

The public can purchase tickets for the trials at a cost of 75 cents each.

Strange Banners

Fly at Lentz Hall

Some of the strong spirit generated by the SIU-Evansville basketball game has been graphically represented by two "banners" flying in front of Thompson Point's Lentz Hall.

One banner, actually a towel, reads "WALT-52" referring to Walt Frazier, SIU's high-point man. The other banner says "BEAT EVANSVILLE."

Both examples of the rising basketball spirit at SIU bear the mysterious word "Elwoods." Although no one seems to know the meaning of the word, it has been suggested that the students who put up the notices are from Elwood, Ind., a city of 10,000 just outside Indianapolis.

A brief look at the Student Director, however, reveals no one from Elwood and no one named Elwood. Perhaps the meaning of "Elwoods" will go down as another of the unsolved mysteries of SIU.

Woman Gymnasts Face Stiff Battle

By Roy Franke

Probably the strongest team ever to challenge the Women's Gymnastic Team in Carbon-dale will be here Friday night when the Oklahoma City Women's Team meets the local team at 8 p.m. in the Arena.

The Oklahoma club is touted as the best in the southwestern part of the nation and boasts team championship titles in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana to prove it.

But in Coach Herb Vogel's Women's Gymnastic Club, the queens of the southwest will is concerned with the condition of his team.

"We will enter the meet with eight 3-hour practice sessions and hope the skill returns, ..." Vogel said.

The team may also be without Miss Schaezner, the 1963 USGF all-around champion, who is recovering from the flu combined with a kidney infection and has not yet been released for either practice or competition.

Ready to go though will be veterans Janis Dunham, Irene Haworth, and Miss Daley as well as newcomers Judy Wills, Nancy Smith and Mary Ellen Toth.

Vogel is expected to rely heavily on Miss Daley, the 1964 "Outstanding Canadian Female Athlete" and three-time - Canadian National Champion. The Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, native could win five of the evening's seven events.

Miss Haworth, another Saskatchewan native, may pick up the slack left by the ailing Miss Schaezner. The most improved Southern gymnast, she has moved from last position on the team all-around totem pole to the number three spot.

She won the vaulting event in the November meet and pushed Miss Daley for the all-around honors until the last event. Since November she has reportedly improved her bar routine and should be in top shape tomorrow night.

Leading contender for the Oklahoma group, making their first appearance as a full team on this side of the Mississippi, will be Debbie Bailey, a 5-5 1/2 blond. Miss Bailey boasts state titles in the all-around in both Oklahoma and Texas.

Other top threats for the visitors are expected to be Mickey Hester, runner-up in the Texas all-around in 1964; Kathy Carroll, southwest AAU tumbling champion and vaulting champion in 1963; Patty Dilbeck, 1964 southwest A.A.U. tumbling champion and Meredith Eubanks, the junior champion all-around performer in the southwest A.A.U. last year.

probably be facing their stiffest competition. Vogel's girls are the defending national women's team champion and loaded again this year with talent.

The Southern team showed in November it had no intention of giving up its national title when it soundly rounced a combined team from Chicago and Flint, Mich., 94-52.

Led by team captain Donna Schaezner and Gail Daley, Vogel's squad won all seven events in that meet and took five seconds.

But the team has been idle since the early season win and also must overcome the Christmas vacation layoff. For the first time Vogel's club didn't spend the break in either training or competition and thus the young mentor

It's a Cliff Hanger, But Aces Edge SIU

By Joe Cook

A layup by Larry Humes of Evansville with four seconds left in the game carried the Purple Aces to an 81-80 victory over the hustling Salukis.

The defeat was a heart-breaker for the Salukis; they had come back from a seven-point deficit with three minutes remaining to gain a brief one point lead on a steal by Dave Lee and a lay-up by Randy Goin with nine seconds remaining.

The shot by Goin set up the hectic finish with the basket by Humes spelling the difference. Southern called time out with four seconds left but a last second desperation shot by Walt Frazier fell short.

Southern started slowly as Evansville grabbed an early 3-0 lead, but the playmaking and scoring of Lee and captain Joe Ramsey and the rebounding of sophomore Ralph Johnson, who controlled seven rebounds off the defensive boards, pushed the Salukis into the lead.

Midway through the first half the Salukis built up a 15-point lead only to see the Purple Aces cut the lead to three points by intermission.

Humes was the biggest problem for the Salukis to try and solve as he poured in 19 points in the first half, most of which came from the free throw line.

Fouls handicapped the Salukis much of the first half when Frazier picked up three quick personals and sat out much of the first half.

In team fouls Southern was called for 12 in the first half and the home-town Aces were caught fouling five times.

At the end of the half the Salukis led 39-36.

The second half started out much like the first. Evansville scored the first four points and regained the lead for only the second time in the game at 40-39.

From the 19-minute mark until the final four minutes the lead changed hands 14 times until the Aces caught fire and built up a seven-point lead with 3:45 remaining in the game.

The final minutes found the Salukis narrowing the lead to one point before Evansville scored again. With just two minutes left in the game Ramsey fouled Sam Watkins and left the game on fouls.

Watkins converted the free throw which upped Evansville's lead to 78-76. Another free throw by Watkins, as he was fouled by Ramsey's replacement Goin, made the score 79-76 with just thirty seconds left.

Not satisfied, Lee immediately stole the inbound pass and fed Goin for an easy two-pointer that put the Salukis once again on top 80-79.

The Salukis' excitement was short lived as Humes made his game-winning shot.

Humes was the high point man for the Aces with 37 points. Frazier for Southern came back from a five-point first half to score 14 in the second half and finished as high scorer for the Salukis with 19 points. Lee was next

U.S. Olympic Swimmers Voted 'Team of the Year' in AP Poll

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

Associated Press Sports Writer

"This is the greatest swimming and diving team ever assembled for any Olympics. It may be years, if ever, before we see another like it."

So said Dr. Harold Henning, manager of the U.S. Olympic swimming team after his teenage stars had completed a series of unprecedented triumphs at Tokyo last October.

"We left swimmers at home who could win medals in these games," he added.

An Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters confirmed that judgment today by naming the Olympic swimming squad as the outstanding team of the year in the AP year-end poll.

It was a natural choice, since the same voters previously had picked Don Scholander, winner of four Olympic gold medals in swimming, as the Male Athlete of the Year and had picked two Olympic swimmers among the first five in the voting for the Female Athlete of the Year.

The U.S. Olympic swimmers and divers took 16 gold medals, 10 second-place silvers and five third-place bronze medals in the Tokyo Games, an unmatched harvest. They broke world records or approached them in nearly every event.

In the voting, the Olympians outdistanced the St. Louis Cardinals, baseball's World Series champions, by more than 2-1 in first-place ballots, 123 to 51. In point scoring on a 3-2-1 basis, the swimmers collected 476 points and the Cards 316.

Notre Dame's football team was picked as No. 3 in the balloting with 16 firsts and 166 points although the Irish, upset by Southern California in their final game, finished third behind unbeaten Alabama and Arkansas in the collegiate football rankings. Alabama was No. 7 and Arkansas No. 8 in the Team of the Year voting.

The Baltimore Colts, Western Conference champions of the National Football League, drew 15 first-place votes and 156 points for fourth place.

with 18 and Ramsey had 14. The victory for Evansville was its 23rd consecutive home court victory and its 14th victory without a loss this season. Southern now has a 7-4 record.

76ers Look to Chamberlain To Reverse Tide of Defeat

By The Associated Press

to go and collapsed in the closing minutes.

Wilt Chamberlain was expected to come home to Philadelphia Wednesday and the weary 76ers were waiting at the airport with open arms.

Since acquiring Chamberlain from San Francisco during last week's National Basketball Association All-Star break, the short-handed 76ers have dropped three of four starts, the latest a 103-97 loss to the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night at Toledo, Ohio.

The 76ers, down to eight men as a result of the 3-for-1 trade and Chamberlain's belated arrival, fell behind in the third quarter, rallied to tie the score at 91 with 4:45 to go and collapsed in the closing minutes.

Chamberlain is expected to play against his former mates today when Philadelphia entertains the Warriors.

Oscar Robertson poured 15 of his 40 points in the last 10 1/2 minutes, leading the Cincinnati Royals past St. Louis 103-99 in Tuesday's other game. The loss ended a three-game winning string for the Hawks, who dropped into second place in the Western Division race, one-half game behind idle Los Angeles.
